Personal

Aged just 22-years-old Zara, a former Under25 national champion, made her mark at senior level in 2003 when coming second at Burghley on her four-star debut (Toytown). Following that performance the daughter of The Princess Royal and Captain Mark Phillips Zara was long-listed for the Olympic Games in Athens but was unable to compete due to injury to Toytown. The following year the combination was second at Luhmuhlen and selected for the European Championships at Blenheim where Zara made her senior team debut. She subsequently won team and individual gold emulating the success of her mother (European Champion 1971). The following year Zara and Toytown won the World Championship title at Aachen and added team silver to their medal haul. In 2006 she was awarded an MBE and was BBC Sport Personality of the Year. Zara now has a 15 horse yard many of which are former racehorses and several owned by principle owner Trevor Hemmings who is the owner of Glenbuck who was formerly ridden by Sherelle Duke.
